Medical.

Hoofland's German Bitters,
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

Hoofland's German Bitters

Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Those who have no objection to the combination of the Bitters, as stated, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing as closely as it does with the Stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heart-burn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigations and inquiries possesses true merit, is skilfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well-known remedies—

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

PREPARED BY Dr. C. M. JACKSON,
PHILADELPHIA, PA

Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhoea, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,
Resulting from any Cause whatever;
PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM,
induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, etc.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

It is a well-established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

HON. GEO. W. WOODWARD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Penna., writes:
Philadelphia, March 16, 1867.

"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD."

HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, I can certify this from my experience of it.
Yours, with respect,
JAMES THOMPSON."

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,
Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir:—I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.
Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates st.

FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL,
Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours, truly,
E. D. FENDALL.

The Star and Sentinel.

THE MOUNTAINS OF LIFE.

BY JAMES G. CLARK.

There's a land far away mid the stars we are told,
Where they know not the sorrows of time;
Where the pure waters wander thro' valleys of gold,
And life is a treasure sublime
'Tis the land of our God, 'tis the home of the soul,
Where ages of splendor eternally roll,
Where the way weary traveler reaches his goal
On the evergreen mountains of life.

Our gaze cannot soar to that beautiful land,
But our visions have told of its bliss,
And our souls by the gale from its gardens are fann'd
When we faint in the deserts of this.
And we sometimes have longed for its holy repose,
When our spirits were torn with temptations and woes,
And we've drank from the tide of the river
that flows
From the evergreen mountains of life.

Of the stars never tread the blue heavens
at night,
But we think where the ransomed have trod,
And the day never smiles from his palace
of light
But we feel the bright smile of our God.
We are traveling homeward thro' changes and gloom,
To a kingdom where pleasures unceasingly blosom,
And our Guide is the glory that shines
thro' the tomb
From the evergreen mountains of life.

THE MUSIC MISTRESS.

CHAPTER I.

I was about sixteen when I was invited by my aunt, Mis Morton, to stay with her for a few months at her house, in that pleasant region of London, the neighborhood of Regent's Park. I was a country bred girl, and had never so much as once visited the great city. I had all a novice's ideas of its gaities and splendors, and thought of them with almost awe as well as curiosity.

I pass over my anticipations of that visit, my arrival in London, the more than fulfilment of some of my dreams, the dissipated illusions of others.

My aunt, by her instant proposal that I should take music lessons in all the usual accomplishments, showed her opinion of the education I had received from a country boarding school.

Of my numerous other masters and mistresses I need not speak—I have long forgotten their very names; but of my music mistress, Grace Harvey, of whom this little record is told, I have the most distinct recollection from the very first hour in which I saw her pale face, her great solemn eyes, that yet sometimes lit up into wonderful beauty, her firm mouth, her tall lithe figure.

"Well," said my aunt, when Miss Harvey took her departure after the first lesson was over, "if that young lady has such a large connection, and so much reputation as an instructress, as Mrs. Rupert tells us, I wonder she does not dress a little better. A certain appearance is incumbent upon every one according to their means, and Miss Harvey's dress is disgracefully shabby."

"It was not very nice," I answered; "but, oh! aunt, what splendid eyes she has—that is, if they were not so full of care."

I was young and enthusiastic in those days, and before long I had contracted an ardent admiration for Miss Harvey, which now ripened into a passionate girlish friendship that made my aunt angry, and Fred laughed kindly.

"Come, Chattie," said he one day, "you shall introduce me to the lady of the handsome eyes and the shabby gown."

"It is very heartless of Aunt Kitty to talk so much of Miss Harvey's dress," I cried. "If she is poor, is that her fault? She is a far finer lady in her poor worn dress than many of my aunt's friends who come here in rustling silks and satins. And you, Fred, I am ashamed of you. Once you did not think a lady made by her dress."

"And perhaps I don't now, either, Chat," said Fred; "and hope I should be the last man in the world to sneer at poverty."

"Grace Harvey has no relations, and she lives in one room, all alone, up ever so many stairs, in such a dark, dismal little street; oh, Fred! it almost stifles me to think of it," I said eagerly. "I met Grace on the street one day, and it rained, and though I think she would have rather not, he took me for shelter to her room. When I saw what a poor low place it was, I felt as if I ought never to have seen it."

"Poor thing!" said Fred, heartily.

"Well, Chattie, we have no right to pry into her secrets, or wonder why, with a large number of pupils, she could be so poor?"

My indignation much soothed by Fred's feeling and good nature, I introduced my brother to Miss Harvey, and noted with a thrill of pleasure, how his bow was as gracefully deferential, his manner as cordially respectful to the poor teacher of music in her worn garments, as ever I had seen in him with the most distinguished of my aunt's fashionable friends. Miss Harvey soon dropped, too, her rather sad reserve of manner with him, and, as Fred was about this time for some reason or other a very dutiful nephew and a most attentive brother, I had the pleasure of seeing the acquaintance between them improve rapidly. How Fred managed to time his calls so exactly to my music lessons is not for me to say, though I was a great deal too shrewd not to notice the fact very speedily; and oh, how pleased to draw my own conclusions from it. It seemed to me, young and enthusiastic as I was, the most natural and desirable thing in the world that my darling brother should fall in love with and marry my dearest friend—music mistress though she was. While pretty sure of Fred's feelings in the matter, I was by no means so confident of Miss Harvey's. At first she had seemed quite pleased with Fred, but by degrees the old sadness and reserve crept back into her manner; and, indeed, after a little while I could see that she plainly avoided him.

One night, to my unbounded delight, Fred took me to a concert, and when the first part was over, and I was able to spare my attention to the audience, I commenced a very admiring survey of the house.

"Dear me," I exclaimed in two or three minutes, "did you ever such a likeness?— There in the fourth row from the end. Oh! she has turned her head away now; but I could almost say it was she."

"She! who, my dear!" inquired Fred.

"Grace Harvey."

"Grace Harvey! Where? What, that girl in white silk, with those splendid flowers? Indeed! it is something like. Ah! now she has turned her head. Marvelously like her! I wonder who the world it is. Is it Miss Harvey?"

"Nonsense, Fred," said I, laughing.—"How can it be poor Grace? Do you think she can afford first-class concerts and white silk dresses?"

But after this I and the concert got but a very divided attention of master Fred.

On the occasion of my next music lesson I did not forget to tell Miss Harvey of the lady so closely resembling her, whom I had seen at the concert, and to my great surprise, looking at my friend the while, I saw that her pale face flushed suddenly and deeply, and for an instant she seemed confused and vexed.

"The resemblance must have been strong indeed, to be visible through all the difference of dress. I ought to feel more complimented than I dare say the lady would be, if she could know, Chattie," was all she replied, and we spoke of it no more.

But one day, not very long after that, Fred came to me in some trouble and excitement.

"Chattie," said he presently, "I am going to tell you a secret. Will you be very much surprised if I tell you that I love Grace Harvey dearly, and that I have asked her to be my wife?"

"Not surprised, but so glad—oh, so glad!"

"Wait," said he, and though he smiled, he looked vexed too. "It is true that I have asked Grace to marry me; but, Chattie, she has refused, in the most unequalified manner."

"Oh, Fred! and I am sure she likes you. It is some scruple about difference in rank, I dare say. Haven't you found out how proud Grace is?"

"To be sure I have. But I don't think that it is that, either; for I asked her outright, and I could not help thinking that my doing that made her think of it for the first time. No, I don't fancy that is the reason; and, Chattie, this is where you can help me. I could not press Grace for her motives, but you might ask questions that I could not. Try and come at her reasons, will you?"

"But Fred, I am not to have my next lesson for more than a fortnight—not till the new piano comes home."

"Oh!" said poor Fred, with a look of great dismay, "I cannot wait that time.— Can't you make some excuse for going to see Miss Harvey?"

What could I not have done for Fred? I ran away to put on my things, and Fred and I were soon in the dingy street, and the house at which Miss Harvey lived. I rang the bell, and inquired for Miss Harvey of the little girl who opened it.

"Yes, Miss Harvey was in—would I walk up?"

Stumbling up the dark and crooked staircase after the small handmaid, we at length arrived at Miss Harvey's door. The child knocked; but as there was no answer, she opened it and told me to walk in. I did so. There was the low and dismal room which I had often thought of with a pang—and there I stood transfixed with astonishment; for that instant a door leading out of this room opened, showing me a momentary glimpse of mirror-gilding and rich furniture within, and Grace herself, beautifully attired in an evening dress, with jewels on her arms and stately neck, stood in the doorway. She in turn looked more than surprised, almost frightened. As she saw me she closed the door behind her quickly, and her face was crimson as she faltered—

"Chattie, is it you?"

I was so utterly bewildered by what I saw,—the discrepancy between her rich dress and apparent, professed poverty, that I did my errand badly enough, I dare say. Grace's face seemed to grow cold and stern, as she listened and replied, sternly, that "Mr. Tablot must consider her decision final, as it was."

Poor Fred! I told him all I had seen, when I gave him her answer, and we never spoke of Grace Harvey after. My visit to town came to an abrupt close soon afterwards, and my friendship for my music teacher became only a memory.

CHAPTER II.

It was some years after this that my brother and I—now a grave lawyer immersed in business—paid a visit to the gray old cathedral town where we were both born.

One evening—a summer evening full of tranquil beauty, I remember—as we sauntered under the shadows of the cloisters, I noticed the figure of a woman sitting on one of the stone benches beneath them, looking out over the graveyard beyond, where the long sun-shadows were growing dusky in the fading light. Something in the figure attracted me, and as we passed I looked into her face. I knew her instantly; yes—careworn, faded, shabbier in dress even than of old—I knew Grace Harvey; and so touched was I, too, by something inexpressibly sad and hopeless in her wistful face and weary attitude, that forgetting the awkwardness of any meeting, accompanied as I was, I stood still and said involuntarily—

"Grace Harvey!"

She looked up hastily, and by the color that flushed into her pale, thin face, I saw that she recognized us. It was a very awkward meeting, but the good breeding and self control of the two most concerned, made it pass off better than one might have hoped.

Miss Harvey was not residing in Deansbury—no, only here for a day or two. She had known the place as a child, and loved it dearly.

I think this was the sum of the information we gathered concerning herself before we parted, which we did very soon.— Though in spite of all the mysterious circumstances that seemed to surround Miss Harvey, my heart yearned towards the object of my passionate, youthful friendship, when she bade us good-by, in her low, thrilling voice, and left us.

Fred and I wandered abroad much later than usual that night, talking of those old times; and when I learned, as I did then, how constant my brother had been to the memory of his early love—how noble his simple faith in her goodness, notwithstanding the mystery surrounding her life— I made a vow in my heart, though I said nothing about it to him.

A day or two after this, as I was coming out of the cathedral, I lingered an instant to admire a new stained window that was in the process of putting in when we first arrived at Deansbury. As I did so two other persons came from another direction and paused before it, and not noticing me, began to talk about the window. I soon gathered that the lady had presented this new memorial window, and the gentleman was eager to know whether the work had been executed according to her wish, and so forth.

"Yes," she answered softly; and the voice was familiar to me though I could not see her face. "Your part of the work is well done; and mine—ah! I have felt as if I could not rest till it was accomplished. And now that it is done, I begin to ask myself what other need of me there is in the world. I think I have never felt lonely till now."

The sad patient voice thrilled through me; and when Grace turned away, as she did almost directly, I hastened after and overtook her, under the gray, old archway of the gate. She colored faintly when she saw me, but did not refuse to walk back with me around the cloisters.

"Grace," said I, pleasantly, "I wonder if you ever remember how fond I was of you?"

"You were a good kind child," she answered, with a faint smile, "and, I believe, loved me better than I deserved."

"Then, Grace make no amends. Tell me why——"

"Tell you all my secrets, I suppose?" she answered. "Well, Chattie, I don't know that I need to keep them any longer. I am sure no other but your kind self would care to hear them. Shall we sit here, where we can see that large tomb? Can you read the names on this side, Chattie?"

"Yes. It is the family vault of Henry Armytage, of Langton Hall."

"I wonder wether my bones will rest there? said Grace, wistfully. "He was my father, Chattie."

I shall not give Grace's story in her own words, though they were far more touching and eloquent than any I can pretend to It was briefly this:

She was one of the three daughters of Henry Armytage, of Langton; the estate, at his death, reverted to the heir male, a distant connection only. The three daughters were, however, handsomely dowered, and at their father's death retired to a neighboring small property, where they lived in much comfort, and even style. Grace, the youngest, was many years the junior of the other ladies, clever and a beauty. The elder sisters were inordinately fond of this girl; pampering and indulging her in every caprice; sacrificing themselves for her, and only happy when she was pleased. They naturally looked to her settling in life in a manner accordant with her ancient name and handsome means; instead of which the willful girl chose to throw herself away upon a man every way her inferior, and, as it turned out the most unprincipled character. The elder sisters at first refusing their consent to the union, the pair eloped, were married, and for a year or two were heard of no more. The elder sisters, only anxious to forgive, lost no opportunity of discovering their whereabouts, and at last brought back the runaway young people to their home at Fairbridge. Here for a while they lived; but before very long it was discovered that Mr. Barrington has disipated his wife's fortune, and the pair were entirely dependent on their relatives. In vain the noble ladies tried to save them from the consequences of their own sins and follies. While money was to be had the husband of the younger would spend it; and at last, when everything available had been obtained, disappeared, leaving his wife behind. The Misses Armytage and their sister left Fairbridge forever, and went to London: but while they had a penny they feebly strove to avert disgrace and ruin from their sister's husband. When all was gone, the poor ladies pentiently set about trying to earn a living, and while thus engaged, the younger, who had rejoined her husband for a while, came back to them, calmly told them she had parted with him forever, assumed her mother's maiden name, and declared she would live and die with her sisters. She was energetic and clever, and, as teacher of music she had already got remunerative employ, when one of her sisters took a fever, languished and died. Almost before she was buried the other was taken ill, and though her life was spared to her stricken sister, was hopelessly imbecile from that time. The only pleasure of which she seemed capable was that of liking to see around her the sights and luxuries of her early life, and to give the poor invalid these, became the one absorbing duty of the young sister's existence.— She removed her sister to the house of an old servent, who let apartments, and who would keep her secret, laboring night and day to furnish one room in the style of her sister's own at Langton, and, while she herself lived upon the poorest fair, supplied that other table with luxuries. After her long day's work, the poor girl would replace her poor, worn dress with one such as she had worn in the days of prosperity, and devote herself to the poor imbecile, striving to call back those early days in which alone she seemed to live; a drive now and then, in unfrequented suburbs; a visit to a concert, which was a source of rapturous delight to the invalid— these were all the substantial enjoyments Grace could venture on. If her husband had had the slightest idea that she gained money enough to give what she did to her sister, he would not long have left her in peace. She guarded her secret carefully, and only seemed to have valued her life as dedicated to the service of her sister, to whom, indeed, she owed such terrible atonement

And then came the day when she could do no more—when her love, her prayer, her labors, could give nothing more to that figure on whom her tears fell so bitterly— and she could only bury her dead out of sight, and realize—oh, how remorsefully! oh, how tenderly!—that little of wrong can be set right in this world.

"It comforted me, somehow, to work hard, that I might lay them both in yonder tomb, where they had wished to lie, and when that was done, I labored to put up the window to their memory." Grace concluded; and then I understood the words I had heard her say in the church.

"And your husband?" I ventured to say, timidly, presently.

"He is gone to where my forgiveness cannot reach him," she answered calmly. "Ah, Chattie, there was no room for regret in my heart for him."

And this was Grace's story. I told it to Fred in the moonlight cloister that night, and all he said was, "Poor darling! Dear noble Grace!"

Need I tell the ending of the story; and that Grace has been, for some years, my dear sister and Fred's happy wife?

HICKORY NUTS AND SALT.—One time, says a writer, while enjoying a visit from an Englishman, hickory nuts were served in the evening, when my English friend called for salt, stating that he knew of a case of a woman eating heartily of nuts in the evening who was taken violently ill.— The celebrated Dr. Abernethy was sent for, but it was after he had become too fond of his cup, and he was not in condition to go. He muttered, "Salt! salt!" of which no notice was taken. Next morning he went to the place, and she was a corpse. He said that had they given her salt it would have relieved her; if they would allow him to make an examination, he would convince them. On opening the stomach the nuts were found in a mass. He sprinkled salt on this, and it immediately dissolved. I have known of a sudden death myself, which appeared to have been the effect of the same cause. I generally eat salt with nuts, and I consider it improves them.

DE QUINCEY being asked why there were more women than men, replied; "It is in conformity with the arrangement of Nature: we always see more of heaven than earth."

A MAN out West, who offered bail for a friend, was asked by the Judge if he had any encumbrance on his farm. "Oh yes," said he, "my old woman."

IF people have a prejudice, it is best to flank, and not storm it. You will never lose anything by tact, by gentleness, by kindness, patience and love.

SOME one says that among our lecturers Emerson is the most intellectual, Phillips the most sarcastic, Gough the most attractive, Beecher the most popular, Curtis the most elegant, Chapin the most rhetorical, and Greely the most eccentric.

OLD age has not hurt this story: A little girl was reproved for playing out of doors with the boys, and informed that, being seven years old, she was too big for that now. "Why grandma, the bigger we grow the better we like 'em."

A LAWYER engaged in a case tormented a witness so much with questions that the poor fellow at last cried for water.— "There," said the judge, "I thought you'd pump him dry."

"GOOD morning, Mr. Henpeck," said a printer in search of female compositors, "have you any daughters that would make good typesetters?"

"No; but I have a wife that would make a very fine devil."

A FLOCK of birds flying over the heads of two city merchants, one of them exclaimed. "How happy the creatures are! They have no acceptances to pas!" "You are mistaken," replied the other; "they have their bills to provide for as well as we."

"WHICH, my dear lady, do you think the merriest place in the world?" "That immediately above the atmosphere that surrounds the earth, I should think." "And why so?" "Because I am told that there all bodies lose their gravity."

JAMES PARTON says in his new book.— "Let all women for the next century but wear such restraining clothes as are now usual, and it is doubtful if the race could ever recover from the effects. It is doubtful if there could ever again be a full-orbed, bouncing baby."

"WILLIAM," said one Quaker to another, "thee knows I never call anybody names; but, William, if the Mayor of the city was to come to me and say, "Joshua, I want thee to find me the biggest liar in all Philadelphia," I would come to thee and put my hand on thy shoulder, and say to thee, 'William, the Mayor wants to see thee.'"

AN English cockney at the Falls of Niagara, when asked how he liked it, replied, "They're 'andsome—quite so; but they don't quite hanser my hexpectations; besides, I got wetted, and lost me 'at. I prefer to look at 'em in an hengraving, in 'ot weather, and in the 'ouse."

DURING some recent sub-marine work in the Seine at Paris, one of the divers employed remained at the bottom so long as to excite the alarm of the attendants. The bubbles which arose indicated that he was alive and stationary, but he could not or would not reply to signals. Another diver was sent down, who found his predecessor gloriously drunk, and enjoying a cosy nap upon the bottom of the river.

"WELL, my lad, where are you travelling this stormy weather, alone?" asked an inquisitive landlord in the North of Vermont, during the last war, of a boy whose father was engaged in smuggling, and had sent him, young as he was, with an important message, in advance of the party. "Going to draw my pension," was the reply.— "Pension!" echoed the astonished landlord, "what does so small a boy as you draw a pension for?" "Minding my own business and letting that of others alone."

SCENE in the Police Court: A merry-faced and bright-eyed Milesian arraigned for disorderly conduct. Judge inquires, very angrily, "If he was not ashamed to be here?" "Pon my soul I am, yer honor." "You are in very disrepatable company." "I know it, yer honor." "It is shameful." "Too true," was the penitent rejoinder. "If I permit you to go this time, will you ever be caught in such company again?" "Not unless yer honor sends for me," was the reply.

IN the olden time, when planters were less thoughtful for the spiritual than the corporeal health of their slaves, Colonel Ramsey saw his "boy" Dan (aged forty) going one morning, Bible in hand, to church. Knowing that Dan was not a person with strong literary proclivities, the Colonel said: "What are you doing with that Bible, Dan? —you con't read it?"

"No, massa, can't zack'ly read 'em but I c'n spell 'em out a little."

"What's the use of spelling it out? You can't understand it, any way. The Bible, for instance, says that 'the very hairs of our head are numbered.' Now you havn't any hairs on your head—nothing but wool.— What do you say to that?"

"Yes, massa, I 'spect dat's so; but I spell out a little verse w'ich say dat on last day de sheep dey will go one side and de goats on de todder. Now de sheep has de wool, but de goats dey got ha'r jus' like white folks, and I 'spect dey aint gwine to be saved— dat's w'at I 'spect!"

BLESSED ARE PAYING SUBSCRIBERS.

Blessed is the man who doth subscribe for his county paper and pays therefor. His feet shall not stand in slippery places; he shall not be forsaken by his friends, nor his children be seen begging.

Blessed is he that walketh to the office of the printer, even ascendeth to the sanctum and payeth a year's subscription in advance,

He shall learn wisdom day by day and be exalted above his fellow.

He shall talk knowingly upon all subjects and his neighbors shall be astonished at the muchness of his learning.

He shall not contract bad debts or loose good bargains.

He shall not pay an additional per cent. on his taxes, for his eyes shall behold the notice of the collector, and he will take warning thereby.

Verily, he shall bring his produce to the market when the prices are exceedingly good, and withhold when the price descendeth.

His children shall not vex him, nor his wife wear the breeches.

He shall live to a good old age, and when his hour is at hand, his soul shall not be troubled as to its future state.

But it were better for him that doth refuse to subscribe for his village paper that he had to be bound hand and foot and cast upon a feather bed.

If perchance he has a moment's peace, it is only that he may have a little rest, ere the memory of an evil hour lacerates his mind as the goad pricks the hide of a strong ox, so that his punishment may be long drawn out.

His children shall grow up in wickedness, they shall put their hands to their noses and vex him to wrath, and his wife shall kick him out of bed.

CONGRESS meets on Monday next. We hope in our next issue to give the President's Message, or at least an abstract of it.

GEN. GRANT is opposed to the proposition to increase the President's salary, and there is not the least probability of its being done. The suggestion came from the N. Y. Times, but has not been favorably received by any interest.

THE Electors for President and Vice President chosen at the recent election met at the several State Capitals on Wednesday and the vote of their States. Hon. T. M. MARSHALL, of Pittsburg, presided over the Pennsylvania electoral college. Each State appoints a messenger to carry the certificate to Washington to be deposited with the presiding officer of the Senate.

WILLIAM E. BARBER, Esq., of West Chester, Pa., will please accept our thanks for a pamphlet copy of "Essays on Political Organizations, selected from among those submitted in competition for the prizes offered by the Union League of Philadelphia." Mr. Barber, who has written the first Essay, favors the Crawford county system, and is for legalizing it by the passage of a law regulating primary political elections to form the party ticket.

ANDY JOHNSON'S Internal Revenue thieves are making the best use of their opportunities. A special agent has recently reported that in eighteen months time the Government was plundered at New Orleans alone, of $11,000,000 on cotton and whisky alone. During the past year when the tax on whisky was $2 per gallon, 40 distillers in the Parish of Orleans were producing at least 20,000 barrels of whisky a month, on which not one cent of tax was paid to the Government. It is alleged that a Ring exists, consisting of all the Government officers. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has sent down an honest man as Supervisor for Louisiana and Arkansas in hope of breaking up this rascality. Perry Fuller, who figured largely in securing the defeat of Impeachment last winter, is said to be the chief operator in this business.

IN a long article, eulogizing the late Thaddeus Stevens, the National Intelligencer says: "On a certain occasion a sealed package came to him which he suspected contained money as a reward for some public service. While engaged for a moment in another apartment, the package was opened incautiously by an attendant. It contained a great number of one thousand dollar bills. Mr. Stevens, in causing a resealing of the package, and its immediate return to the source whence it came, expressed regret that it should have been opened, because he intended to return it intact, suspecting the contents, yet not wishing to know for a certainty of what, in its presentation, he felt to be a wound. Another package of $5,000 was returned with a stinging retort. That he had very many like offers in money and stocks is likely, and that they were habitually refused is sure, since his estate is of the most moderate value."

THERE appears to be no change in the "Senatorial" situation, beyond the withdrawal of Hon. WILLIAM H. KEMBLE, and the substitution of J. EDGAR THOMSON, Esq., of Philadelphia, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The Philadelphia Inquirer says the Philadelphia Republican delegation have agreed upon him. R. B. CARNAHAN, Esq., of Pittsburgh, is a new name suggested. Col. F. JORDAN is another. There is no lack of good material. The Legislature owe it to themselves, to the Republicans of the State, to the proper influence of the State at Washington, and to the interests of the country at large to select a true man, sound in his political views, firm in their advocacy, and tried in their maintenance. It is wonderful that we have survived the treachery of the many in high places who have deserted their principles and betrayed their trust. It is time now, that tried men should be selected, and it is proper that GRANT'S Administration have, in Mr. BUCKALEW'S successor, a capable, reliable, and influential supporter. We hope, that discussion will result in the selection of such a person.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from North Carolina, draws this picture, which is one of a thousand like outrages:

"There is yet some unreclaimed savageism existing in this section. A few days ago, when in Governor Holden's office, I saw a mutilated negro who had suffered the most excruciating agony for his political sentiments. At the dead hour of the night, he and his wife were taken to the woods by a band of masked desperadoes. The man's ears were horribly cut, and other indignities were visited upon him. The wife suffered also severe and internal punishment. In the morning, they made their way to a Magistrate, who declared he could do nothing for them. The Sheriffs and Magistrates in some of the counties are of no earthly importance.

The negro, suffering from his terrible wounds, walked thirty miles to this city.—He related the case to the Governor, who seemed justly indignant. Nothing, however, could be done for the poor fellow.—The militia are of no account. They have no arms furnished. Gen. Miles, the District Commander, offered a squad of men to vindicate the National authority in the punishment of that famous band of conspirators. For some reason, the proposition was not accepted, and the unhung villains are yet at large roaming through the country.

A MOVEMENT is progressing in the South; to introduce the "small farm" system, as the only practical method of restoring the prosperity of the South. A recent number of the Petersburg (Va.) says:

"There is a natural pride in large estates, and a natural objection to breaking up large possessions. But the circumstances which warranted great estates, and which placed the wealth and power of a community in a few hands, are wholly changed, and with the altered condition of affairs a new system of property owning is necessary. Instead of our princely plantations, there must be a hundred homesteads, and as the country is more thickly settled and wealth is more evenly distributed, the South may become richer and more thrifty than ever before."

The next thing to do, is to make life and property secure in the South, and not dependent on a man's political opinions, any more than his religious views, or his nationality. Labor and capital will both shun the South till a reform is established in this respect.

HON. JOHN CESSNA.

The Philadelphia Press of Tuesday last has a length complimentary notice of Hon. JOHN CESSNA, the member of Congress elect from this district, and predicts for him a prominent and influential position in the National Legislature. After alluding to the desperate efforts made by the [illegible] Democracy to defeat Mr. CESSNA and thus punish him for his fidelity to the country and his abandonment of the Democratic party because of its infidelity to the cause of Right and Justice—the lavish expenditure of money in the district—the introduction unto the canvass of such shining lights as General Francis P. Blair, candidate for Vice President; John T. Hoffman, of New York, E. F. Pillsbury, of Maine, and Governor Swann of Maryland, to compass his defeat and his triumphant election, notwithstanding all these efforts, the Press remarks:

"Mr. Cessna was a member of the Cincinnati Convention of 1856, that nominated James Buchanan to the Presidency. He was also a member of the Charleston and Baltimore Convention of 1860, was chairman of the Committee on Organization and Rules, and was the author of the "anti-unit" rule, by which minorities of delegations were permitted to vote as they saw fit, and by the adoption of which some thirty-six votes were added to the strength of Stephen A. Douglas in that convention. He had ever been an active member of the Democratic party, was in 1858 an anti-Lecompton Democrat, and in 1860, as we have seen, supported Stephen A. Douglas; but at the breaking out of the slaveholders' rebellion, like his trusted and beloved leader, and with such Democrats as Dix, Dickinson, Stanton, Logan, Butler, he favored a vigorous prosecution of the war, and believed in summoning every power invested by the Constitution in the Government for the overthrow of armed treason. He ardently supported the re-election of Abraham Lincoln, and greatly contributed to the support of the Union party during that ever-memorable campaign. In 1865, on motion of that great statesman, Thaddeus Stevens, Mr. Cessna was chosen chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Pennsylvania, and by his consummate tact and ability, the Union majority was greater than at an previous election, except that of 1860. He has been frequently spoken of in connection with the office of Governor, and would be well qualified to discharge the duties incumbent upon the Chief Executive. In private life Mr. Cessna is noted for his social qualities and general hospitality, and many a young man toiling up the steeps of Parnassus has he gladened by pecuniary assistance. He is strictly temperate, scrupulously exact and punctual in all his engagements, and his whole character, pure as snow and chaste as ice, has rounded out his life in deeds of charity.

He is an eloquent, forcible speaker, possessing a logical, analytical mind, and style freed from any excess of imagery—plain and perspicuous. Such in fine is a brief resume of the history and character of one of the representative men of Pennsylvania, who is destined to act a conspicuous part in the future annals of our country."

THE Tories in England used the same means to carry the elections against the Liberals (whom they derisively call "Radicals"), which the Southern Copperheads used to prevent the landless laborer from voting the Republican or "Radical" ticket. The Aristocratic party, in each case, were guilty of shameful oppression; but we are not aware that the English Tories went so far as to resort to the Copperhead argument of murder.

We extract a few paragraphs from a Liberal paper published in England:

"As the men and women employed at the factories were going to their work, those engaged at the mills of gentlemen of Tory views, who had voted for the Radicals, or whose friends were Radicals, "were roughly seized by their fellow-workmen and turned out of doors." Some were even more seriously maltreated. "If any one," says the Manchester Examiner, "offered any objection, he was surrounded by a number of his fellows and assaulted in a ruffianly manner." "Stones were thrown, sticks were used, and many persons had their heads cut." The employers, when appealed to, said they could not help it, while "foremen and overlookers stood by and did not interfere." "Some of the men," says a writer in the Daily News, "who had been thus summarily ejected went to know if the masters had sanctioned their sudden discharge. The reply was, 'If you resume work you will get a fortnight's notice.'—Men have been asked in the morning how they intended to vote, and if they answered 'for the Liberals,' were paid off in the afternoon. A man who has worked sixteen years in the engine shop, and who was on a job that would last several weeks, was paid off for voting on the Liberal side. All these cases of political oppression have occurred in the mills of Tories."

In spite of all this, the "Radicals" swept the field, showing that the world moves, and that independent thought will assert and secure its rights. Tories, on both sides of the Atlantic, are dismally howling over the decay of their antiquated notions, and the rapid growth of the civilizing ideas which are in harmony with the progressive present.

THE Nation briefly explains how the frauds were carried out by the Copperheads of New York City, at the late election:

"50,000 persons were naturalized in this city, of whom 20,000 never went near the courts, and not more than 10,000 to 15,000 at the outside were ever sworn, or were entitled to their papers. At least 20,000 fictitious names were registered in the cities of New York and Brooklyn; the number was probably greater than this, but could not have been less. In a single ward votes were cast upon more than 2,000 fictitious names. To deter Republican challengers, one of the most conspicuous was knocked down in the middle of the day, and as nearly murdered as it was in the power of his assailants to do. Seven thousand of the roughs in the two cities were appointed by the sheriffs to arrest challengers and to force in fraudulent votes. The fraudulent naturalization papers were scattered over the State of New York, and greatly reduced Grant's majorities in the inner counties."

In one county in New Jersey, several thousand votes were cast, on fraudulent naturalization papers, by Democratic roughs; and we know thoroughly the same species of rascality was practised in Pennsylvania. Considering the extent of these frauds, it is surprising that the Republicans were able so generally to maintain their supremacy.

A BOSTON Copperhead writes to a Chicago paper of his ilk, describing how Connecticut was redeemed by the Republicans. He says the fine majority rolled up for English last spring has been whittled all to pieces, and a large majority for Grant substituted therefor. He explains how it was done. The last Legislature, which was Republican, passed laws committing several "outrages on the Democracy." One was, restricting each Democrat so that he could vote but once; a second "outrage" was the prevention of unnaturalized persons from voting "at all, at all."

THE INDIAN WAR.—Despatches from Gen. Sheridan give the details of a battle between Gen. Custer's troops and the Indians under Black Kettle, on the 27th ult. Custer struck the trail of the hostile Indians on the 26th, and immediately started in pursuit through a terrible snow storm.—Black Kettle's camp was surprised, and after a desperate fight, captured, with all their stock, ammunition, arms, lodges, robes, and fifty three women and children. Black Kettle himself was killed with 103 Indian warriors, whose bodies were left on the field. Gen. Custer lost Maj. Elliott, Capt. Hamilton, and 15 men killed, and about an equal number wounded. Sheridan is on the war-path, and will whip the hostile Indians into submission or exterminate them.

GENERAL GRANT's majority in California is 596, but owing to informality in printing the name of a Republican elector, the Secretary of State refused to certify his election. The matter went to the Supreme Court, and was decided in favor of the elector. $2,000,000 were at stake, and the Democrats claimed the bets unless the electoral vote for Grant and Colfax was unanimous.

In the night time she went down stairs to take her usual smoke, and falling asleep, her clothes caught fire. Before she could give the alarm she was smothered with the smoke from her burning clothes. When her husband went to look for her he found the house on fire, and nothing left of her but the charred remains.

IT is estimated that there are in Minnesota some 75,000 of Norwegians, in a population, say, of half a million. Here, as at home, they show little affinity for a city life.—They are farmers by choice and vocation. Industrious, frugal, patient and persevering, they are the true pioneers for a region like this. Attached to their hereditary faith, they are laying the foundations of numerous Lutheran churches in their settlements, and will thus help to avert the atheism and barbarism which so often gather upon a frontier population.

BY European despatches we have the announcement from London of the resignation of the Disraeli Ministry. Mr. Disraeli, in a defence of his course, published in Wednesday's London papers, says that the result of the recent elections shows that the Ministry cannot command the support of the new House of Commons, and therefore they feel it due to their honor, and to the policy supported by them, to resign at once, instead of awaiting the meeting of Parliament, in which they must be in a minority. Mr. Disraeli then announces himself and friends as being ready to support reform in the Church in Ireland, and at the same time declares that he will offer an uncompromising resistance to Mr. Gladstone's measures for the disestablishment of the Irish Church, a measure which he pronounces to be wrong and probably impracticable.

A DEMOCRATIC JOURNAL IN TENNESSEE ON UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

The Nashville Banner, the most influential Democratic newspaper in Middle Tennessee—or perhaps in the State—in a [illegible] judicious [illegible] remarks [illegible] manhood suffrage in that State:

"[illegible] leaving [illegible] quite out of the question, and considering only the national interests of the whole people of the State at large, we have long been convinced, in our own mind, that the permanent peace and future prosperity of the country could only be assured upon the broad basis of universal manhood suffrage. We know it has been ridiculed as the most abstruse question that could be raised at this time, and not at all pertinent to the situation; but it is a living question for all that, and inevitable as doom, or the diurnal motion of the earth upon its axis. It is not 'social equality of the races,' which so many pretend to fear, and those who are most apprehensive of it are themselves nearer to that equality than those who are not afraid to deal with an existing fact, by making a virtue of necessity.

"The negro will always be a negro, no matter what the legislation of the country may resolve, and we belong to that class who, recognizing the fact that he is no longer a slave; that he is here in the country and cannot be removed, except by extermination, which would be neither expedient, practicable, nor desirable; that it is better that he should be an educated rather than a brutish animal; that it is better that he should be elevated to the dignity and responsibility of citizenship, than that he should continue to degenerate in the grade of civilization to a condition of semi-barbarity—and with these opinions—that there is more certainty of a final settlement of the questions which have so long disturbed and sectionalized the American people, through the method of compromise suggested by the Commercial, than in any other remedy yet proposed for a solution which would be unversally satisfactory."

A VIRGINIA JURY—"AND THEY CAST LOTS."

We have heard of Texas and Arkansas jurors deciding the life of a man by playing a game of "old sledge," but the following statement, made to Governor Wells, of the "majority rule" in the jury-room, is about the first instance approaching the "jack-flopping" process of rendering a verdict that has come to light in Virginia:

William Armistead, of Portsmouth, Va., was convicted at the November, 1868, term of the Hustings Court, of unlawful shooting, and sentenced to the jail for six months. Pardon was applied for by ten of the jurors by whom he was tried, and by citizens, on the ground that there were mitigating circumstances, and of his former good character. It appears, by the sworn statement of one of the jurors, that the cause was given to the jury on the 14th of the month; that they were unable to agree, and remained in the jury-room until the 16th, the jury then standing eight for unconditional acquittal, two for conviction and two for compromise—they being ready to vote whichever way might secure a verdict.

The jurors agreed to draw lots. Twelve ballots were then placed in a hat, marked "guilty," with twelve blank ballots, making in all twenty-four. The hat was then shaken and twelve ballots drawn out, and it was agreed that the verdict should be as the ballots remaining in the hat indicated. On counting the ballots it was found that seven had written upon them "guilty" and five were blank. The prisoner was thereupon, in pursuance of the agreement, found guilty. Under such circumstances the prisoner cannot be said to have had a trial by jury. Pardon granted.

A GIRL MURDERS A CHILD, THEN ROASTS IT ON A STOVE.

We have received the particulars of a horrible affair which occurred about a mile from Corning, Wednesday last, November 25th. At the place indicated there resided a family named McCulloch, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch and their three children, aged respectively five, three and one and a-half years. The husband is represented to be a shiftless, indolent fellow, and his wife has been compelled to labor to support the family. She has lately been selling sewing machines, and on Wednesday last started on a trip through the surrounding country for that purpose, leaving her children in charge of a girl named Barber, aged eighteen years, whom she hired for the purpose. In the evening the youngest child cried and was fretful when, it is said, Barber threw it upon the floor and stamped upon it until it was almost lifeless. Then taking the little one up she held its hands upon a hot stove until they were terribly burned. The child was too far gone to utter more than a faint scream while it was being roasted. Barber then threatened to throw it into a well, when the other children, who had witnessed the whole thing, told her that if she did they would tell their mother. The girl then wrapped the child in a blanket, or bedquilt, and placed it in bed, where it was found by the mother, who returned home Wednesday night, dead. The marks of brutality were plainly visible on its little body, and, after questioning the children, information was given the coroner. After an investigation he ordered the arrest of Barber.

NATIONAL ENFRANCHISEMENT.

The time has come when the elective franchise should be made a constitutional right of the citizen. It is unsafe, improper and wrong for the National Government to expose its constituency to disfranchisement by interior and local organizations, called "States." By what proper right shall a State Government define who may and who may not vote for Presidential Electors and members of Congress? What is a National Government good for which cannot endow its own constituents with the elective franchise? How can it protect its own existence if its constituency is cut off, whittled down or controlled by adverse local authorities? What sort of a government was that in South Carolina, where the citizens were not allowed to vote for Presidential Electors or Members of Congress, and where an oligarchy of a few thousand families ruled the State, the people and the constituents of the National Government? That was State "sovereignty" with a vengeance, and it was there where treason and rebellion were hatched. If the citizens of South Carolina had possessed universal suffrage there would have been no nullification and no rebellion. Let us learn a lession from this sad and sorrowful experience. Never leave it in the power of an oligarch of slavery or wealth to cut off the electoral relation between the National Government and its constituents and supporters.

WHO WILL HAVE INFLUENCE WITH GENERAL GRANT?

There is a great deal of speculation on this subject just now. Some people think that Mr. E. B. Washburne will control him; some say that he is in frequent and confidential correspondence with Mr. A. T. Stewart, the dry goods man; some say that General Rawlins is powerful with him, and others that General Badeau wields a wonderful influence. We have been frequently asked what we think about the matter, and to save the trouble of further inquiry we may as well state our views. On one occasion, when General Grant was riding with us behind Peerless, he quietly remarked; "I should like to have hold of the reins." Now, we rather think General Grant will hold the reins himself the next four years. He has been elected President and he will be President. It is true that he has said that he should only carry out the will of the people as declared by the laws of Congress, but then he will carry it out. We shall have an administration. He will do his duty, and the men under him will have to do their duty. Therefore we conclude that the most influential man with the Administration of the next four years will be Ulysses S. Grant.—New York Ledger.

A MOTHER AND HER TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH BY A KEROSENE ACCIDENT.

[Correspondence of the New York Times.]

[illegible], SUNDAY, November 29, 1868.

A heart[illegible] in this place [illegible] cast a [illegible] the entire village [illegible] death of a mother and her two children. After dark, Mrs. Leslie, the mother, stood in the family room with her babe, only nine months old, in her arms, while under a table on which rested a kerosene lamp was the little son, aged three years, playing and kicking up his heels in childish glee. By accident, his little foot struck the table too hard, causing the flame of the kerosene lamp to flicker wildly, the oil inside igniting, and the lamp exploding immediately, inflammable material streaming over the table and dropping in liquid flame on the floor, setting fire at once to the little boy's clothing. With a cry of horror on her lips the frightened mother sat the babe upon the floor and rushed to the rescue of her darling child, caring not for herself, being not at all mindful of her imminent peril. While she was doing her work of mercy, the consuming flames, all unknown to her, had also stealthily caught her own clothing, and before she could extinguish them, she, too, was wrapped in flames. Turning suddenly about with terrible pain, she uttered a wild, terrible scream as her eyes rested upon her darling babe, who was now also enveloped in the cruel flame, when shriek after shriek of agony was heard proceeding from the dwelling, the neighbors hurrying to the scene in great confusion. As soon as possible, the three sufferers were almost smothered in carpeting and the flames were extinguished, when the sight presented, as the victims were exposed to view, was a harrowing one indeed. Blistered and burned, writhing in pain, everything was done for them that was possible, the best physicians being in attendance, but all was to no purpose, as the three died this morning before daylight. When the father of the family heard of the affair, with heart in his throat, he fairly flew to his residence, and on beholding the awful scene before him, fell prostrate to the floor in a swoon. He is a cutter for John A. Atchison, the tailor. To-day the three bodies are being viewed by hundreds of the villagers, and the terrible accident is the only topic of conversation on the streets.

LITERARY NOTICES.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for 1869 will possess special features of interest.—Motley, the historian, will contribute a series of historical articles, beginning early in the year. T. W. Higginson, so long and favorably known to the readers of the Atlantic Monthly, has written a serial story, entitled "Malbone: An Oldport Romance," which will begin with the January number and continue the greater part of the year. James Russell Lowell will furnish frequent contributions, both in prose and poetry. The January number will contain an essay and poem from his pen. Edward Everett Hale, Author of "The Man without a Country" and "My Double, and how He undid Me," will publish in the Atlantic for 1869 a series of stories and sketches similar to those which have been so popular with readers of previous volumes of the Atlantic. James Parton will continue his articles on social, industrial, and commercial subjects. His first contribution to the volume for 1869 is a striking paper, entitled "The Mean Yankees at Home. By a Summer Visitor." Dr. I. I. Hayes will contribute a series of papers, entitled "The Experiences of an American Cadet." The Author of "Victor and Jacqueline" will contribute a new American romance, to appear in twelve numbers. Dr. Henry I. Bowditch will furnish a very valuable series of papers on "Consumption," showing its manifold causes, and the best modes of remedying the evils which produce it. James Freeman Clarke will give, in a series of papers, a complete account of oriental religions. Bayard Taylor will contribute to most of the numbers of the coming year, furnishing several stories and essays. Eugene Benson will furnish papers on Art and Literature. A distinguished Physiologist will furnish several most timely and valuable papers on the "increase of Longevity in America." The valuable and popular papers on "Co-operative House-keeping" will be continued through several numbers. A series of Autobiographical Papers, descriptive of a residence of several years on the Isles of Shoals, will be published in the volume for 1869. Terms, $4 a year.—Address, Fields, Osgood & Co., Boston.

"THE LADY'S FRIEND," closes the year with a capital number. We have a beautiful picture of "Robert Burns and Highland Mary;" a charmingly unique and suggestive Frontispiece, "Una and the Lion;" a gay and graceful Fashion Plate; a handsome Pasha Lamp Mat, Oriental in coloring and design; a Christmas Pudding wood-cut—and other illustrations. Among the contributions we have the conclusion of "Fleeing from Fate," a capital story, by Louise Chandler Moulton, and a poem by by the same lady—"A Timely Christmas Voice." Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford contributes one of her best stories. Miss Douglass concludes "The Debarry Fortune" in a way that every one will like; with articles from Trowbridge and Sophia May.

The Prospectus for the next year contains attractive inducements to new subscribers, and we advise our readers to send for a specimen number (which is furnished gratis,) and avail themselves of the Publishers' munificent offers. Mrs. Henry Wood, the celebrated author of "East Lynne," is also announced for a serial novel for next year. Published by Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut street, Philadelphia, at 2.50 a year (which also includes a large steel engraving.) Four copies, $6. Eight (and one gratis,) $12. "The Lady's Friend" and "The Saturday Evening Post," $4 00.

A CHALLENGE.—We have received the December number of "Merry's Museum," for young people, and old people, too, who have not forgotten that they were once young. The Publisher, HORACE B. FULLER, Boston, claims that "Merry" is the best magazine of its kind issued in this country, and challenges comparison. Our readers can decide this point for themselves by sending to him two-three cent stamps for a specimen. The January number begins a New Volume, which will be further enlarged and improved. Terms, $1.50 a year in advance.

A NATURAL curiosity arrived in Salem Mass., recently in the brig Rescue, from Africa. It is an African dwarf 39 inches in height, and weighing only 55 pounds. He was born in Liberia in 1844, and belongs to the Kroo nation. He has no arms, has been educated at the mission school at Serra Leone under the instruction of Rev. Mr. Hoffman, speaks English fluently, can write well with his toes, holding the paper with one foot and the pen with the other. He was placed in the school at the age of 18. He converses freely, and shows far more then the average intelligence of his race. He can thread a needle and sew, make baskets, fill his pipe with tobacco, of which he is quite fond, and do many other things with his toes.

THE contest between the Republicans and Monarchists in Spain shows signs of bitterness. On Monday a meeting of Monarchists at Valladolid was broken up by the Republicans. General Prim has found it necessary to deny, with great indignation, the report that he had proposed a coup d' etat, and declares that the present Spanish Government will have no dealings with the Bourbons.

THE Miners' Journal, of Pottsville, Schuylkill county, says:

In the trunk of James Finley, the robber and assassin, opened recently by the police at New Boston, where Finley worked and lived, was found a fraudulent naturalization paper bearing the signature of J. Ross Snowden, a billy, and a silver watch, old fashioned, with the initials "J. M." on the back, and on the works, "Jas. Miller—Poplar—No 9,050."

Almost invariably, where the journals of Pennsylvania record the arrest of a thief or burglar, and the capture of his "tools," the kit comprises not only the regular appliances of the rascally trade, but a batch of the Snowden naturalization papers. Can anybody account for this?—Pittsburg Gazette.

THE price of oil in the oil regions has advanced from thirty-five to fifty cents a barrel at all points since the 11th ult.

EVERY DAY BRINGS FORTH new testimony to the efficacy of that well-known remedy HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS. Many thousands of persons who are to day suffering from disorders of the digestive organs, who are emaciated, weak, and unable to attend to their business, could soon become well, hearty and robust, by the use of a few bottles of this Bitters. Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and Debility of the System, soon vanish before this powerful remedy. Its effects are almost miraculous.

Hon. James Ross Snowden, Prothonotary of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, SEPT. 14th, 1867.

Hoofland's German Bitters is a very useful article as a tonic, and as an appetizer. It is not an intoxicating drink, and may be used beneficially by persons of all ages.

Respectfully, Yours,
JAS. ROSS SNOWDEN.

The high character of those who testify to the merits of Hoofland's Bitters, should induce the most sceptical to give it a fair trial. Hoofland's German Bitters is free from any alcohlic admixture. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC is a combination of the ingredients of Hoofland's Bitters with pure Santa Cruz Rum, orange, anise, &c., making a pleasant and agreeable preparation for those requiring an Alcoholic Stimulus, medicinally combined.

TO PHYSICIANS.—New York, August 15th, 1867. Allow me to call your attention to my PREPARATION OF COMPOUND EXTRACT BUCHU. The component parts are BUCHU, LONG LEAF, CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.—Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper Berries, by distillation, to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by displacement by liquor obtained from Juniper Berries, containing very little sugar, a small proportion of spirit, and more palatable than any now in use. The active properties are by this mode extracted.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists generally, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates; the smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopœa, nor is it a Syrup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exists. In this, you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of preparation.

Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that upon inspection it will meet with your approbation,

With a feeling of confidence,
I am, very respectfully,
H. T. HELMBOLD,
Chemist and Druggist of 16 Years' Experience in Philadelphia, and now located at his Drug and Chemical Warehouse, 594 Broadway, New York.

[From the largest Manufacturing Chemists in the World.]

"I am acquainted with Mr. H. T. Helmbold; he occupied the Drug Store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU, for weakness arising from indiscretion. The exhausted powers of Nature which are accompanied by so many alarming symptoms, among which will be found, Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Memory, Wakefulness, Horror of Disease, or Forebodings of Evil, in fact, Universal Lassitude, Prostration, and inability to enter into the enjoyments of society.

The Constitution, once affected with Organic Weakness, requires the aid of Medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU invariably does. If no treatment is submitted to Consumption or Insanity ensues.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU, in affections peculiar to Females, is unequaled by any other preparation, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrus State of the Uterus, and all complaints incident to the sex, whether arising from habits of dissipation, imprudence in, or the decline or change of life.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU AND IMPROVED ROSE WASH will radically exterminate from the system diseases arising from habits of dissipation, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience or exposure; completely superseding those unpleasant and dangerous remedies, Copaiva and Mercury, in all these diseases.

USE HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU in all diseases of these organs, whether existing in male or female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. It is pleasant in taste and odor, "immediate" in action, and more strengthening than any of the preparations of Bark or Iron.

Those suffering from broken-down or delicate constitutions, procure the remedy at once.

The reader must be aware that, however slight may be the attack of the above diseases, it is certain to affect the bodily health and mental powers.

All the above diseases require the aid of a Diuretic. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is the great Diuretic.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. Price—$1.25 per bottle, or six bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications.

The Star and Sentinel.

Gettysburg, Friday, Dec. 4, 1868.

CHANGED.—Rev. W. M. REILLY has left Lewisburg, and removed to Jonestown, Lebanon county, Pennsylvania.

☞ Jesse D. Keller, was, on Tuesday, sworn in as County Surveyor, succeeding J. S. Witherow, whose term expires.

☞ There will be public service in the church at Hunterstown on Sabbath morning, the 6th inst., and in the church at Marsh Creek, on Sabbath morning, the 13th inst. The hour of morning worship is 11 o'clock.

SUSPENDED.—Work on the Gettysburg Springs Railroad has been suspended for the winter. The ties are being put down and covered over with earth, so that the road can be driven over. The Work will be resumed and the road completed early next spring.

☞ W. W. WRIGHT, of this county, who has acquired considerable reputation as an Engineer, and during the War had important duties devolved on him by the Government in the construction of army railroads, has been engaged to superintend the erection of the great Bridge at Leavenworth, Kansas.

DEER.—Deer seem to be unusually plenty this season in the South Mountain. Quite a number have been shot by various parties. On Wednesday last, David Stover and George W. Irwin brought two fine Deer to town, which they had killed. A party from Juniata county, hunting with the above gentlemen, also got three. Peter Henry also shot one last week.

LECTURES.—Rev. Dr. MORRIS, of Baltimore, will lecture to-night in Agricultural Hall, on "How to Read," with illustrations. Dr. MORRIS is himself one of the best readers in the country, full of wit and humor, and a rich treat may be expected to-night. The proceeds go to the Seminary Athenæum. Let there be a full house.

☞ In our issue of Nov. 20, we drew attention to the operations of a stranger, passing by the name of J. W. MCKNIGHT, who had been swindling Odd Fellows and Lodges in this region professing to be a member of a Lodge in Columbus, Ohio. As we have a subscriber of the same name, resident in Pittsburg, and formerly of this county, it is proper that we should explain that the swindler, although bearing the same name, is not our Pittsburg friend—who, by the way is a thorough gentleman. To those who know Mr. MCKNIGHT this explanation is of course unnecessary.

☞ That excellent journal, the Star and Sentinel, which has come to the very front among the weekly papers of the State, enters upon its sixty-ninth year—its age running with the century. Its proprietors tell us that its prospects are to-day brighter than ever—advertising, subscription, and influence increasing. It acknowledges no superior, even in counties which ought to support a better paper than Adams could be expected to, because more populous, wealthy, and of greater territorial extent.—Phila. Press.

SALES.—Samuel Eyster has sold his farm in Butler township to Ezekiel Lau, of Reading township, 150 acres, for $7500.

Mr. Shepard Stammers has sold his farm of 97 acres, in Straban township, to John Eckert of Mountpleasant township, for $6000 cash.

Henry Slaybaugh has sold his farm, in Butler township, to Daniel Leinard—73 acres, with improvements—at $5,050. Mr. Slaybaugh has purchased 18 acres, with improvements, adjoining Middletown, from Henry G. Kozer, at $2,200.

The executors of Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, deceased have sold to Mrs. Agnes Sheads the small triangular parcel of ground lying between the Harrisburg and Carlisle roads and the run—containing about one third of an acre—for $105.

John C. Zouck has bought of George Arnold his large two-story brick house in New Oxford, for $3,600 cash.

Andrew Pottorff has bought of John C. Zouck, as agent for John Barnitz, a house and lot in same place, for $1,800 cash.

COURSE OF LECTURES.—We feel assured that our readers will be glad to know that the young men connected with the Literary Societies of the College have arranged another course of popular Lectures to come off this Winter in Agricultural Hall. These Lectures are gotten up for the benefit of our citizens mainly, and are attended with heavy expense, as Lecturers of reputation have to be paid liberally. It remains to be seen whether our citizens sufficiently appreciate these literary treats to make them a permanent "institution." The young men who go to the trouble of getting them up, and assume the financial risk, certainly deserve credit, and if our citizens are wise they will liberally sustain them. The first Lecture of the course will be delivered Tuesday evening, Dec. 15, by GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND, a brilliant and widely reputed platform talker, on "Pennsylvania Dutch." He will be followed by the famous "Josh Billings," and other noted lecturers.

RAILROAD EXTENSION.—We are glad to see that public attention has been renewed to the expediency of building a railroad from York to New Oxford, and hope to see this improvement made before long. Commenting on the early completion of the Columbia Bridge, which will reduce the time between Philadelphia to York, to four hours—the U. S. Railroad Register says: "York, therefore, which now has direct railroad communication south to Baltimore and Washington, and north and west via Harrisburg, will hereafter have equally good facilities east to Philadelphia. York is the thriving business and money centre of a large and important county (the 'white rose,' separated from the 'red rose' of Lancaster by the Susquehanna river), and contains about 15,000 inhabitants, having increased its population 75 per cent since 1860.

"York also needs more direct communication with Gettysburg, and will no doubt compass that desideratum, through co-operation of interests to be benefitted, since any one can appreciate at a glance the advantages which would accrue to York from a line of road to New Oxford, which would open to York a region now tributary to Hanover and thence to Baltimore; at the same time putting York on an east and west route as she now is on a north and south route.

"The southern border of Pennsylvania is a good country, and it is a matter of moment to Philadelphia to cultivate improved and extended communication with it."

CALENDARS FOR 1869.—We are prepared to print Calendars for the year 1869, with Business Cards attached, and ornamental border, specially gotten up for the purpose. Merchants will find it an attractive and profitable way of advertising. The handsome Calendar will cause it to be carefully posted up in counting-houses, business places, hotels, and dwellings, and thus preserved, with the business card attached, while ordinary advertisements are torn up and destroyed. They can be furnished on short notice, printed on card board or paper, in plain or fancy colors, and at very reasonable rates. Send in your orders.

JUST FROM THE CITY.—THEO. C. NORRIS has just returned from the city with a very large stock of goods such as Clothing, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, Under Shirts, Over Shirts, Over-alls, Stockings, Collars, Neckties, and every kind of gentleman's wear, Over Shoes of every description, and some Boots that cannot be beat in the county for quality and price, also—a large stock of Government Clothing, direct from the Q. M. Department and warranted perfect in every particular, 2

COURT DOINGS.—The new law separating the criminal and civil business by giving one week to each, seems to work well, and will doubtless prove economical to the county, as well to parties and suitors. Instead of detaining a crowd of witnesses in criminal trials until the middle of the week before taking up Commonwealth cases, the latter are begun at once on Monday morning, and rapidly disposed of, while witnesses and parties in civil cases are summoned for the week following, when their cases are also promptly taken up. Last week was given up to criminal cases, the Court adjourning on Friday evening. This week is devoted to civil business.

Jacob Melhorn, Prothonotary elect, was sworn in on Tuesday last. The retiring Prothonotary (Mr. Kitzmiller) carries with him the good wishes of the Court and Bar, well earned by a prompt, courteous and efficient discharge of his official duties during the past three years.

Joseph J. Kuhn, elected Associate Judge, will take office on Monday next, when Judge Wierman's term expires.

We continue our abstract of the cases disposed of since our last issue.

IN QUARTER SESSION.

Com. vs. John F. Barton.—Surety of the Peace, on information of Jacob Briel. Defendant, while under the influence of liquor, had some difficulty with prosecutor, during which hard words were used and a pistol displayed, and Mr. Briel, deeming himself in danger, concluded to put defendant under bonds for good behavior. Court, after hearing, dismissed the complaint, but ordered defendant to pay costs, with an admonition as to the impropriety of drinking and carrying arms.

Com. vs. William Blumbaum and Theodore Richards.—Indictment for Larceny of tools, the property of John Kretz. The Jury found Blumbaum guilty, and Richards not guilty. Blumbaum was sentenced to Eastern Penitentiary 15 months.

Com. vs. Same.—Indictment for Larceny of some chickens, the property of William Currens. Verdict, not guilty.

Com. vs. Same.—Indictment for Larceny of Flour and other goods, the property of Jacob Baker. The Jury found defendants guilty of stealing a portion of the articles. Blumbaum sentenced to five days, and Richards sixty days' imprisonment in County Jail.

Com. vs. Same.—Indictment for Larceny of Whip, Oats, &c., the property of David P. Beitler. Verdict, guilty as to the Whip. Blumbaum sentenced to one day, and Richards 30 days' imprisonment in County Jail.

Com. vs. Same.—Surety of the Peace on information of Jeremiah Frazier. The defendants having, by sentences in preceding cases, been disposed of in such way as to secure Frazier from present harm, the complaint was dismissed, county to pay costs.

Com. vs. William E. King and John King.—Indictment for Assault and Battery on person of Joseph Orendorff. The parties are all young men, who had been to Singing School in Mountjoy township, where a difficulty sprang up, in course of which prosecutor was knocked down, getting a black eye, &c. Defendants undertook to show that the muss was a general one, and that the assault was not committed by them. The Jury, however, found them both guilty. Sentenced to pay a fine of $5 each and the costs.

IN COMMON PLEAS.

Levi D. Maus, surviving partner of Maus & Swope, vs. John Cashun.—Appeal from Justice. Action to recover on Book Account and money loaned. Defendant denied indebtedness and undertook to show settlement as to the book account, and that the money, instead of being loaned, was in reality a payment on account of legacy due to Defendant's wife by the deceased partner, Mr Swope, as Administrator of Samuel Swope, deceased. Verdict for Plaintiff for $58.83, amount of Plaintiff's claim.

Benjamin Malaun's Executors vs. Francis S. Wilson and Wife. Action to recover amount of three Promissory Notes, given by Mrs. Wilson, before marriage. Defendants satisfied the Jury that the notes had all been paid, and verdict accordingly for Defendants.

Christian Kechler and Wife vs. Philip Bittinger, and John F. Houck Executor of Jacob Fiddler, deceased. Action in Ejectment. Fiddler's Will gave to Mrs. Kechler "two fields" and "Woodland north of them." Defendants undertook to show that the devise had been satisfied by surveying off and setting apart the "two fields" and certain woodland; but Plaintiffs claim that the devise covered 3 acres and 161 perches of woodland additional to that surveyed off, and bring suit to recover the same.—Jury still out.

Edward Stably vs. George Smith. Appeal from Justice. On trial.

Several cases have been settled by the parties, without trial, during the week.

HORSE THIEVES ARRESTED.—On Monday night last, between 9 and 10 o'clock, as two young men named ARENDT who had been at Fairfield, reached the premises of Mr. JACOB PLANK, in Highland township, they came across two strangers near Mr. PLANK's barn, who had been helping themselves to a bag of oats having two horses in charge. As the Messrs. ARENDT came up, the bag was thrown over the fence, and the strangers announced their desire to purchase some feed for the horses. As the circumstances were suspicious, it was concluded to detain the strangers, who were invited into the house for supper and the horses were put into the barn to feed—while one of the ARENDT's immediately mounting a horse, came to town for officer ROUZER. Mr ROUZER went out, found the strangers still at Mr. PLANK's, and after a little examination, satisfied that they were horse thieves, arrested both. They were brought to town and committed to Jail. One gave his name as Wm. H. Mangum, from Georgetown, D. C., and the other as John M. Longabaugh, of Perryville, Pa. Both were at first defiant, but after giving contradictory statements as to their recent whereabouts, Mangum admitted that he was from the South and had fought with the Louisiana "Tigers," at the battle of Gettysburg. Longabaugh claimed to have formerly lived in North Carolina, but residing at present in Juniata county.

It turns out that one of the animals, a black, was stolen from the stable of Andrew Hykes, in Newberry township, York county, on Saturday night last; and the other, a sorrel mare, was stolen the same night from the stable of Abraham Miller, of same township.

HOUSEKEEPERS, and all others wanting anything in the house-keeping line, will do well to call at Col. C. H. BUEHLER's extensive Ware-room, near the Passenger depot, on Carlisle street, who has on hand a very large assortment of Stoves of the best manufacture, Cooking, Parlor, Office, and Chamber Stoves, for wood or Coal; also Hollow Ware, Tin Ware, Japan Ware, Britannia Ware, Bird Cages, and a general assortment of Kitchen utensils. Also Coal and Lumber of all kinds. tf

ANOTHER NOTICE.—There is considerable amount of money due me on the books of the late "Adams Sentinel"—the non-payment of which subjects me to great inconvenience, as I am mainly dependent upon this as a means of support for my family, and the liquidation of debts. I trust, therefore, that this will be the only notice required to induce those who owe me to pay their indebtness AT ONCE.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Notwithstand the approach of Winter, various improvements are in progress in the borough.—Samuel Herbst has his large residence on Chambersburg street under roof. It is three stories brick, and attick, and will make an imposing appearance. Mr. Koser's handsome brick dwelling on Washington street, is nearly completed.—W. T. Ziegler is putting up a new Carriage Factory, on Washington street, between the Railroad and Chambersburg street. James Pierce has erected a two-story brick dwelling house on Breckinridge street. Jacob Hanky and John Elseser are erecting two-story frame dwellings at the west end of Middle street.—Wm. B. Meals is about finishing the enlargement of his dwelling house on York street. Mr. Grumbine has completed his frame dwelling on same street. The double dwelling of Jacob and Wm. Refly on same street, is under roof. Michael Rehm has put up a frame dwelling on the York pike, between the bridge and Gate-house. Philip and George Cashman are putting up a two story frame dwelling on Stratton street. Jeremiah M. Rowe has a two-story brick dwelling on Baltimore street under roof. John Norbeck and William Shillen have their dwellings on Baltimore street nearly completed. The handsome Cottage residence of John Rupp, on same street, will be completed in a few weeks. Miss Martha Warren has put up a two-story frame dwelling on Chambersburg street. J. E. Wible a two story brick dwelling on Carlisle street. Other improvements are in contemplation and progress in different parts of the town.

DEAR SIR:—The death of one of our firm occasions changes in our business, which will necessitate our immediately taking account of stock and the disposal of our entire supply of Fall and Winter Clothing. Of this immense quantity of ready-made goods,—the largest, most varied and cheapest ever offered in Philadelphia,—you have already spoken to your readers through your excellent paper, and many of your friends and neighbors have already visited us and can testify to the truth of all that has been said. Will you please say to them now that everything that is in our immense establishment, thousands upon thousands of coats, pants and vests must be sold off immediately, at any price we can get for them, in order that the proper settlements of our business may be made.

Our necessity is their opportunity. There is not an article the price of which shall not be reduced, and rather than miss sales we will let the goods go at their own prices. Add to this the fact that such ready-made clothing, so beautiful, so durable and so well made, has never before been manufactured in Philadelphia, and all will see that this is an opportunity, the like of which they may not find again in their whole life. There is not a man or boy in your county whom it would not pay to lay in a stock of clothing for the next ten years, and we will confidently expect to sell at least one suit to every reader of your paper.

The sale will commence on Friday, December 1st. About seventy-five salesmen will be employed, so that any number of customers can receive prompt and polite attention. The store will be opened early and kept open late, and nothing will be allowed to stand in the way of the immediate cleaning out of our whole stock.

Please insert the enclosed advertisement and make any use of this letter that may serve the interests of your readers and friends. Yours, very respectfully,

NEWS OF NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

CUMBERLAND.—A correspondent of the Chambersburg Repository recommends Gen. Lemuel Todd of Carlisle for U. S. Senator.

FRANKLIN.—The Republicans of Waynesboro' had an illumination and Torch-light Procession on Thursday evening the 19th.—Peter and Daniel Geiser of Waynesboro', have been granted a patent for an improvement in threshing machines.

FREDERICK.—At the late election, "Hauvers District," the old Jacksonian precinct, gave Gen. Grant 2 majority. It is said this is the first instance in the recollection of the oldest inhabitant when Hauvers failed to give a Democratic majority.—The Western Maryland railroad operations on this work in the vicinity of Mechanicstown, and the mountain adjacent thereto, are likely to be temporarily suspended for the want of funds to prosecute the enterprize.—On Sunday last, near Creagerstown, a daughter of Mr. John Wachter was shot and killed by a young daughter of Dr. J. W. Miller. They were playing together with a pistol, which was not known to be loaded. Miss Wachter and a little daughter of Dr. Miller went up stairs, where they discovered a pistol. The latter, not thinking it was loaded, playfully told Miss Wachter that she would shoot her, and cocking the pistol, she levelled it at her, when it went off, the ball entering her left cheek and lodging in the brain. The unfortunate girl lingered about six hours, when death came to her relief, making another sad and terrible warning against the careless use of firearms.—The hog cholera or some other disease is prevailing among the swine in the neighborhood of Adamsville, on the Creagerstown road. Quite a number of grown hogs have already died.

WASHINGTON.—Mrs. Rowland and other parties charged with the murder of Andrew Rowland, husband of the former, near Hagerstown, a short time since, intend applying to the Circuit Court of Washington county for a change of venue to Frederick county. The facts connected with the murder of Mr. Rowland are exciting profound interest, and the result of the trial is awaited with great anxiety. Hon. Wm. T. Hamilton has been appointed to assist in the prosecution of the prisoners.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Washington County Railroad Company was held in Baltimore on the 18th ult. The President, E. M. Mealey, of Hagerstown, having declined a re-election, Robert Fowler, of Baltimore, was unanimously elected to that position for the ensuing year. The retiring President continues his connection with his company, however, as a member of the Board of Directors—the former board having been unanimously re-elected, as follows: Robert Fowler, Edward M. Mealey, Johns Hopkins, Galloway Cheston, George Scott Kennedy, Jacob Miller and Peter B. Small.

YORK.—Dr. George W. Hinkle of Hanover, died recently of apoplexy, after a week's illness.—On the 17th ult. a little son of Mr. David F. Miller, of Codorus, was so severely burned by his clothes catching fire at the stove, in the absence of the family, that he died fourteen hours afterwards.—Jacob Young, of Hanover, last week, fell from a wagon, on his head, sustaining a severe but not fatal injury.

THE ORIENTAL COAL STOVE.—S. G. COOK has received another lot of these celebrated stoves, being the 3d lot this season, the great demand for the Oriental proves its excellence. It is by far the cheapest, handsomest and best base burning stove in the market, and becomes a favorite where ever introduced, a cheerful ornament in the parlor, a convenience in the dining room and a necessity every where. Being a self feeding, perpetual burner, economical in the use of coal, easily managed and possessing greater heating capacity than any other, it maintains its supremacy among base burners, as it fully deserves. Call and see it.

Cook has also a full supply of Cooking Stoves at reduced prices warranted to bake and give satisfaction in every respect, also a general assortment of articles suitable for Kitchen use, &c. Give him a call. tf

"MYSTERIES OF THE MICROSCOPE.—Not that there is any especial hidden mystery in the innocent-looking, modest little instrument, that presents objects to us as they really are, making huge monsters out of mere mites, and as often, presenting most magnificent animals in what, to the unaided eye, appears an uncouth atom. The mystery is of the microscope. Its power, to our intelligence, as at present educated, is unintelligible, and would be magical, but that we know the microscope to be innocent of the black art, and the maker only a man like ourselves—a trifle more clever perhaps, but not a mite of a magician. So much of thought is invoked by the advent of a red mite upon the edge of the white sheet now under the point of my pen, and the ruby dot—a mere point to the naked eye—hurrying over the white field, a perfect crimson streak. If a man were to run at that rate, according to bulk, he would get over the ground about a thousand miles an hour, and race entirely round the world in a day and night, with three hours left for refreshment.

"Arresting the atomic red runaway, and clapping him under my simple apparatus Craig Microscope, in an instant I had under my eye a wonder—a bright crimson bird, wingless, like the penguin, but perfect in proportions, and of most exquisite beauty; its downy plumage brilliantly bright; its six perfect bird legs, three set on either side. I saw there the secret of the rapid race. Fancy a turkey gobbler with six legs, each one putting in its quota of speed! Wouldn't the old fellow outrun a hurricane? Then there are the five white, delicate toes, more like a fair lady's fingers, to each foot; black, lustrous eyes; and beak like that of a great war eagle—all harmonious; but strange—very wonderful—mysterious—the manner in which that single bit of clear glass metamorphoses the tiny red mite into a great magnificent bird! There, go out with you, and go your way, diminished to a red atom, almost infinitessimal a gain! Send—scatter, crimson speck, and leave me to my say of my magnifying miracle.

"Before I was the proprietor of this Craig glass, for which I paid $2 50*, I had for ten years used a French instrument, which cost me, I think, $5500, of feeble power and less reliable. With the French 'Cressatx,' I searched long and fruitlessly for the 'trichina spiralis,' that savants guessed was in our American pork. With the $2 50 Craig I laid hold of it plainly and positively at the second trial. That was two years ago this month. Is it recorded that any one had discovered teh pork pets earlier than that date? If not, then they were first found under an American microscope; and so much for the skill and ingenuity of American mechanism.

"For the farmer and fruit-grower, especially, these simple, practical instruments are invaluable; and, to their children, a source of education, amusement, and real instructive pleasure, of which they will never grow weary. A bright little girl of ten years, daughter of a farmer friend, to whom I loaned mine, actually acquired a fuller and more correct knowledge of half a hundred insect inhabitants of her neighborhood, in six weeks' practice with the microscope, than a professed entomologist, principal of a neighboring seminary, had acquired in thirty years of study."—From the American Farmer.—Written for it by the late Dr. R. C. Kendall, alias "Cosmo," of Philadelphia, Agricultural Editor. It

CHERRY PECTORAL,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Billious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

THE WAY A GOOD FARMER WORKS.

The Rural American says: "A good farmer will not plow more land than he can cultivate well; poorly cultivated land is always growing poorer, while well tilled land is constantly improving. A good farmer takes care of all his fields alike, and will not slight some fields because they are not so rich and pleasant to work as others, but will devote his attention to the improvement of his whole farm, and not let any part go to waste, to grow brush and briars.

A good farmer will not keep more cattle, horses, or other stock than he can keep in good order. Stock in good order at the beginning of winter, are much easier wintered than poor stock. A good farmer will have a straw stack or good comfortable sheds, for his stock to lie by or under during the chilling winds of winter; a little money spent in preparing sheds for stock will return a very good interest.

A good farmer will not depend upon his neighbors for what he can produce himself; he will early plant out a good orchard of the different varieties of fruit, and take special care to cultivate the smaller fruits and berries, also to make a good garden and keep the same in the best of order. And if his neighbors see that he is doing all this—trying to produce all that is necessary to make himself and family comfortable—they will be very willing and even glad sometimes to furnish him and family fruit, &c., while his own orchard is growing up.

A good farmer will pay attention to political matters, and not be ignorant of the great questions of National and State policy, which will always agitate, more or less, a free people. Yet, in doing this, he will not spend his time in the village, by the store or tavern, whittling pine boxes: but will attend to his various kinds of work in due season, and fix up all things ready for the approaching winter.

When a good farmer has anything to sell, he is willing to take a fair price when offered to him. I know a farmer who last year was offered $3 10 per bushel for his wheat; he was not willing to sell at that, he wanted five dollars per bushel; waited a while for the market to rise, and was glad to take $2 50 per bushel.

HORTICULTURAL PRINTING.—A Massachusetts paper tells of a curious experiment which will interest those of horticultural tastes who have leisure and fancy to try it:

I have just seen a very pretty and fanciful idea developed on pears and apples in the orchard of a friend at West Roxbury, Mass. As you ramble among the trees you are ever and anon saluted by an inscription upon the fruit, done as it were by the hands of nature herself. Here you meet with the familiar name of Mary, or Alice, or a date (1868)—in brief, everything that may suggest itself to your taste and fancy; and all done in the skin of the fruit, without abrasion or any foreign impression. The discovery was made by the Hon. Arthur W. Austin, of West Roxbury, in 1861-2. He observed, during the former year, that apples did not redden in that part of the fruit where a leaf happened to lie upon it. In 1862, he cut out letters from newspapers, and when the apples were yet green, he pasted them upon them with paste such as the apothecaries use, made of gum tragacanth. The apples would redden in all parts not covered by the pasted letters.—When the fruit had reddened to perfection the letters were removed, and they would appear permanently outlined in green. So, again, when he pasted on the apple a paper in which the letters were cut out, the parts covered by the paper would be green, and the letters would appear, distinctly turned in red, the green ground surrounding them. The experiment is a very pretty one, and produces a happy effect.

A SEASONABLE SUGGESTION on the arrangement of stalls for cattle is given by the Saturday Evening Post:

We have seen lately in one neighborhood up in the mountain farm regions of Pennsylvania, three instances of what appear to us to be comfortable, common sense stalls for cattle. The stalls are wide enough to admit of the animals' turning in them, the sides closely boarded up, the floor a dais, raised seven or eight inches above that of the passageway in the rear, with an outward pitch of about three inches in the length of the stall, the entrance of each closed with two leaved folding doors opening inwards. There are no rings, stanchions, or any tying or fastening by the head. No animal not absolutely a fool, will ever stand, head down hill, and always, in every instance, we found the cattle in these stalls, standing "right end up," well up to the rack, and as clean and comfortable as animals ever need be. As all the bovine animals have their little itches and inconveniences to attend to as well as ourselves, and would be better for the use of their tongues with which they can reach nearly every part of their bodies, this freedom of the stall seems to be a very good common sense arrangement, besides providing comfortable quarters in all cold, stormy weather. The stalls need not be expensive, being all made of rough materials, and a sufficient opening above the folding-doors to afford free ventilation.

HINTS TO FARMERS.—An exchange has the following:

Don't buy a piano for your daughters while your sons need a plow.

Don't let your horses be seen standing much at the tavern-door; it don't look right.

Don't give the merchant a chance to dun you. Prompt payments make independent men.

Keep good fences, especially line fences; they promote good feelings among neighbors.

A decent, substantial clothing for your children makes them think better of themselves, and keeps the doctors away.

Don't starve your land; if you do, you will grow lean.

Don't buy patent rights to sell again.

Don't become surety for him who waits for the sheriff.

Buy a farm-wagon before a fine carriage.

If you have a yoke of oxen, don't be ashamed of them, and give your note for a span of horses.

Don't run for constable; you may get it, and let the plow stand.

Teach your boys to look up and forward, never down or backward.

Don't leave to memory what should be written; it makes lawsuits.

When the labors of the day are past, let good books and newspapers invite the youngsters to the sitting-room.

TO MAKE A BALKY HORSE DRAW.—In India where a horse can and will not draw, instead of whipping, spurring or burning him, as is frequently the practice in more civilized countries, they quietly get a rope and attaching it to one of the fore feet, one or two men take hold of it, and advancing a few paces ahead of the horse, pull their best. No matter how stubborn the animal may be, a few doses of such treatment effects a perfect cure.

FOUR turkeys were cooped up and fed with meal, boiled potatoes and oats; four others of the same brood were treated in a similar manner in another pen, but with a pint, daily, of finely pulverized charcoal added to the food, and an abundant supply of the coal. All eight were killed the same day, and those fed with the charcoal were found to weigh a pound and a half more than the others, and to be of much better quality.

HON. A. K. McCLURE, Philadelphia, Solicitor.

The Chinese Government having (through the Hon. Anson Burlingame) conceded to the Company the privilege of connecting the great seaports of the Empire by submarine electric telegraph cable, we propose commencing operations in China, and laying down a line of nine hundred miles at once, between the following ports, viz:

	Population.
Canton	1,000,000
Macoa	60,000
Hong-Kong	250,000
Swatow	200,000
Amoy	250,000
Foo-Chow	1,250,000
Wan Chu	300,000
Ningpo	400,000
Hang Chean	1,200,000
Shanghai	1,000,000
Total	5,910,000

These ports have a foreign commerce of $900,000,000, and an enormous domestic trade, beside which we have the immense internal commerce of the Empire, radiating from these points, through its canals and navigable rivers.

The cable being laid, this Company proposes erecting land lines, and establishing a speedy and trustworthy means of communication, which must command there, as everywhere else, the communications of the Government, of business, and of social life, especially in China. She has no postal system, and her only means now of communicating information is by couriers on land, and by steamers on water.

The Western World knows that China is a very large country, in the main densely peopled; but few yet realize that she contains more than a third of the human race. The latest returns made to her central authorities for taxing purposes by the local magistrates make her population Four Hundred and Fourteen Millions, and this is more likely to be under than over the actual aggregate. Nearly all of these, who are over ten years old, not only can but do read and write. Her civilization is peculiar, but her literature is as extensive as that of Europe. China is a land of teachers and traders; and the latter are exceedingly quick to avail themselves of every proffered facility for procuring early information. It is observed in California that the Chinese make great use of the telegraph, though it there transmits messages in English alone. To day great numbers of fleet steamers are owned by Chinese merchants, and used by them exclusively for the transmission of early intelligence.—If the telegraph we propose, connecting all their great seaports, were now in existence, it is believed that its business would pay the cost within the first two years of its successful operation, and would steadily increase thereafter.

No enterprise commends itself as in a greater degree remunerative to capitalists, and to our whole people. It is of a vast national importance commercially, politically, and evangelically.

The stock of this Company has been unqualifiedly recommended to capitalists and business men, as a desirable investment by editorial articles in the New York Herald, Tribune, World, Times, Post, Express, Independent, and in the Philadelphia North American, Press, Ledger, Inquirer, Age, Bulletin and Telegraph.

Shares of this Company, to a limited number, may be obtained at $50 each, $10 payable down, $15 on the 1st of November, and $25 payable in monthly instalments of $2.50 each, commencing December 1, 1868, on application to

DREXEL & CO.,

Shares can be obtained in Gettysburg by application to J. E. BAIR, Cashier of the Gettysburg National Bank; in Oxford, to J. JANVIER, Cashier of National Bank; who are Bankers, authorized to receive subscriptions, and can give all necessary information on the subject. [Sept. 18, 1868.

Roth's Improvement for Opening, Closing and Latching Gates,

MAY be attached to any gate and operated from buggy, team or saddle, by one hand, in any desired direction from the gate—opened and closed from one point, at any distance from the gate. This improvement is simple and cheap, yet perfect and strong; will not be disarranged by the sagging of the gate, nor by the frost raising the posts; may be made at a country blacksmith's, and easily attached to a gate. The undersigned, having the Right for Adams county, will sell Township and Farm Rights of this improvement.

Also, ROTH & SHANE'S AMERICAN LEVER GATE

—which will be found valuable and convenient to all who have gates to drive through—as they remain by their team, open, close and latch a gate, without the necessity of getting in the wet or mud.

J. H. SHIREMAN'S
REAPERS & MOWERS.

HAVING been agent for this machine last season, I also offer it to the farmer this season. It is well known, having taken the premium at the Bendersville Fair, also at the Gettysburg Mowing Match over seven others, which were considered splendid machines, and likewise at the Dillsburg Mowing Match. Having concluded not to offer any machine that will not give entire satisfaction, I have refused agencies of several other machines, and now offer this one as

THE GREAT MACHINE OF THE SEASON.

Having tried one myself, I know exactly what it will do. I could refer you to scores of farmers who have purchased machines of me, who are highly pleased and say this is the only machine they would use.

Extras always on hand, and repairing done here at my place. This is a great consideration—the machine can be repaired at home immediately, and with much less cost.

Another great saving is the BINDER which is attached to this celebrated Reaper and Mower. It has been thoroughly tried, and given entire satisfaction—requiring no harvest hand except a driver. This Binder can also be attached to the Reapers which have been sold; but cannot be attached to any other machine except Shireman's.

I will here refer you to a few farmers, in different localities, who have bought and used these machines:

Michael Fiscel,
Moses Hartman,
Joseph Wierman,
Ulrich Jacobs,
Jacob Hartman,
Stephen Gettier,
Mr. Sterner,
Mr. Linn,
J. R. Hershey
B. B. Woodburn.
Jacob Laman,

with others, too numerous to mention.

This machine has a self-rake, side delivery, and is warranted to do its work as above recommended.

Also on hand, SHIREMAN'S SELF-DISCHARGING HORSE RAKE, a first-rate article, which we will sell at the lowest possible price. Warranted to give satisfaction. Also the COLUMBIA RAKE always on hand.

Machines can be seen at my house, three miles south of Gettysburg, or at Mr. Conrad Snyder's Battlefield Hotel. LEWIS A. BUSHMAN, Agent.

THE GREAT CHOLERA PREVENTATIVE.

I.
X. 1866. L.
THE GREAT
Zingari Bitters.

THIS WONDERFUL REMEDY was discovered and introduced about twenty years ago by Dr. S. Cheopsus, an eminent Egyptian physician.

He had long seen and felt the want of some remedy which would strike at the root of disease, and so prevent much of the suffering which the human family was then compelled to endure.

This great question was presented to his mind every day in vivid colors as he moved among the sick and dying, and observed the inefficiency of nearly all the remedies then in use. Thus he was led to think and experiment; and after ten years' study and labor, he presented to his fellow-man the wonderful Zingari Bitters. The effect of this preparation in the prevention and cure of disease, was so marvellous and astonishing, that the most flattering marks of royal favor were bestowed upon him who discovered it.—His name was placed upon the Roll of Nobles, and a gold medal with the following inscription—Dr. S. Cheopsus, the Public Benefactor—was presented to him by the Viceroy.

The preparation has been used in several epidemics of cholera, both as a preventive and curative measure, and with such great success, that it has been introduced into nearly all the general hospitals of the old world.

The old saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, applies with marvellous force to cholera, and therefore any remedy that will protect us against this terrible disease should be freely and persistently used.

All pathologists now agree that the cholera poison acts on the system through the blood, and that any combination which acts on the excretory organs, and keeps them in working order, must prevent a sufficient accumulation of the poison to exert its terrible effects on the organism. This is true not only of cholera, but of nearly all other maladies, especially the different forms of fever.

The Zingari Bitters is just such a remedy as the above conditions require. It acts on the organs of excretion and secretion, keeping up a perfect balance between them. This Bitters is composed entirely of roots and herbs, so nicely concocted that every organ is acted upon and put in tone. Its taste is pleasant and its effects prompt and lasting.

Numerous cases of the following diseases have been cured by it: Cholera, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Scrofula, Typhoid and Typhus Fever, Fever, Ague, Nervous Debility, Anaemia, Female Irregularities, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Colic, &c.

Price One Dollar per quart Bottle.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR
FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.
The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for useful ness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

HAIR DRESSING,
